Expenditure Watch Training Webinar Presentation #1

Wednesday 7th September 2011

What is a Webinar and why are we using it for training?

- A Webinar (short for web-based seminar) is an interactive presentation, lecture, workshop or seminar that is transmitted over the internet (web).
- We chose to use webinars for training because:
 - You will get more value from Expenditure Watch with more frequent, structured and interactive training sessions
 - You may invite colleagues we may not have met (or even be aware of) to attend any sessions and get value using Expenditure Watch
 - It will help us assist you better by getting more frequent feedback

An Introduction to Webinar Training

Some important points to help you get the most of your webinar training experience:

- Voice and Visuals – I will be communicating to you using audio and visual media (like right now)
- Chat/Text Message – You may communicate to me using the chat message feature. If you send me a message that is relevant to most on the webinar, I will try to address it on the webinar. Otherwise, if a response is required I will contact you afterwards.
- Interactivity – The best time to ask questions is whilst I'm going through the training. I will finish the section I'm on, then address any questions I see pop up. And don't worry you won't miss out on the actual content because...
- Recording – All webinars will be recorded and distributed.

Our plan for each webinar session:
